Last Friday evening Mr A McLean lost his purse containing a considerable sum of money and two checks. Sunday morning it was picked up by Dan Bernard in company with Joe Humphry and immediately returned to A McLean. When the purse was found by these gentlemen it was minus the money that it had contained, having been previously picked up by an unknown party who "clean-up" the cash and then dropped the pocket book again where it was last found.

Little excitement prevailed at the nomination meeting held on Monday evening last. Messrs Brewster, McLean, and T Lancaster were nominated as candidates and were elected unanimously to that position, councillors. Upon the election of the latter who was absent Mr Keith handed in for Mr Lancaster his resignation. Mr Lancaster not caring to act as councillor for the coming year. This now makes it necessary that a new councillor be nominated and elected.

Although the attendance at the dance given last Friday evening by the Gun Club was not all that could be desired those who attended pronounced the ball a great success. The cold dip which we experienced was the cause of the poor turnout. Sweet Music, a good lunch and a swell time passed an entertaining evening. Mr W Watt who attended, from Innisfail, bringing down a party in his automobile acted as floor manager. At midnight one of the most carefully prepared lunches was served after which the dancing was resumed until about 2:00 a. m.

Howard & Morfitt, this week took over the general store business from S Butler which they purchased some time ago. The new firm will carry on business under the name of Howard & Morfitt, dealing in general merchandise. Both these gentlemen have had previous experience in this line of business, Mr Morfitt conducting stores in Manitoba and latterly in British Columbia while Mr Howard was formerly in business in Innisfail. With such capable men at the head of an enterprise the public are assured of the best service and the most courteous treatment as well as being able to secure the freshest, newest, and most carefully selected stock of goods available.

The H Ruthven MacDonald Concert Party gave one of their classical concerts in McCue's Hall on Tuesday evening last. All the principals of the party are artists of no small merit and the audience was not backward in saying that the show was one of the best seen here this season. The party was composed of Mr H Ruthven MacDonald, baritone; Miss Mildred Gordon, elocutionist; Miss Bertha M Crawford, soprano; and Mrs H A MacDonald, accompanist. The numbers rendered by these talented artists met with the high approval and repeated encores of the audience.

T Keith has moved into the house that has so long been vacant opposite the Brewster House. There are at present no vacant residences in the town.

Rev D N Keith of Red Deer Ladies College occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church here last Sunday in the absence of Rev Chalmers who has been called to Red Deer by the ill health of his mother. Mr Keith preached a New Year's sermon to women and also at the close of the sermon explained in a few words the position financially that the Red Deer Ladies College now finds itself. The enterprise has met with great success $20000 of the $50000 required for the building already being subscribed. Have You Received Yours?

We have given away nearly 125,000 of these books, first and last, and the end is not yet. One day we received over 1,000 requests. The reason is not far to seek. People appreciate a piece of advertising which is interesting and tells them how one-half of the time, work and worry is saved in offices of those who use nearly 110,000 Burroughs machines. There isn't a dull page out of the 152 in the book, and its title, "A Better Day's Work" means that you should have it.

If you haven't received your copy, tell us. There is no string to it, if you ask on your letter head-to-day.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

The best medicine in the world for little ones is the medicine that will promptly cure all their little ills and at the same time can be given the very youngest baby with absolute safety. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to cure the ills of childhood and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain one particle of injurious drug. Concerning them Mrs. John Robertson, Streetville, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation with the very best results. They are indeed a valuable medicine for little ones." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANADIAN PEACHES ABROAD.

Fruit in Britain Has Been an Object Lesson.

The successful shipment of Canadian peaches on a commercial scale to the markets of Great Britain, will mark the year 1910 as the beginning of a new phase in the development of the tender fruit industry in Canada. There has been extensive planting of peach orchards during the past few years, and notwithstanding the enlarged market in the Northwest, the crop has now reached such proportions, or at least it will in a year or two, that there will be no encouragement to increase the peach acreage, unless some other outlet is in sight.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture, as represented by the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, early in the season made arrangements to purchase a quantity of peaches to be packed in single layer cases, each peach to be wrapped in paper and surrounded with wool.

The packing was done under the direct supervision of an officer of the Department. The contract with the growers, as represented by the St. Catharines Cold Storage & Forwarding Co., was for 2,000 cases, but, owing to stormy weather and other causes, only 1,200 cases were ready in time.

Three varieties have been shipped, namely, "Early Crawford," "Old Mixon" and "Elberta." These have all been landed in good condition. The packing has been reported as perfect. In some cases it was necessary to hold the peaches for a few days to allow them to ripen.

The returns have been very encouraging to growers. Each case contained only 20 to 25 peaches, or about 6 pounds of fruit. The selling prices so far reported have varied from three shillings and three pence to six shillings and six pence, the average net return to the growers being nearly $1 per case f.o.b. cars at St. Catharines. The Department of Agriculture guaranteed the growers the local price (about 3 1/2 cents per pound) plus the extra cost of packing, with the understanding that anything realized in excess of the guarantee would be paid over to them. It would now seem that the growers will receive several times the amount of the guarantee.

Special refrigerators or cars were arranged for by the Department to carry the peaches to Montreal, and cold storage chambers were reserved on steamers for three weekly sailings each to London, Liverpool and Glasgow, and one to Bristol. The facilities thus provided made private shipments possible. Mr. C. A. Dobson, of the Jordan Harbor Peach Ranch, has made successful shipments of several hundred cases of peaches, and others have shipped pears and early apples.

Throught the refrigerator car and cargo inspection services of this branch of the Department of Agriculture, we will have complete data respecting the temperature and other conditions under which the fruit was carried until it reached the markets in Great Britain.

This information will be issued in the form of a bulletin for the guidance of growers who may wish to make shipments in future. The trail will be well blazed and it will be the fault of the shippers if they do not follow it successfully.

A recent bulletin makes the following announcement respecting the season's crop: "In Eastern Canada the peach crop has been very irregular, and quite conflicting reports have been received. As the crop approaches maturity and is being harvested, the general estimation would be that there is a medium to full crop, but light in certain varieties. The late peaches are even better than the earlier varieties. The Early Crawfords were better than usual. The Smocks will be a medium crop. The Elbertas, however, are light. British Columbia reports a full crop of both early and late peaches."

It also contains this information of importance to shippers: "Many peach growers are shipping this year for the first time in peach boxes. It should be noted that, while the Inspection and Sale Act prescribed no name and addresses for the peach basket, the peach box must be marked the same as any other closed package. The inspectors are reporting a number of cases where peach boxes have not been properly marked."

The presence in the English market of Canadian peaches will present to the British public another aspect of our resources.

Toronto Girl's Task Will Be Done.

Some months ago it was announced that the talented young painter, Miss Edith P. Stevenson, whose studio is at Richmond Hill, near Toronto, had been commissioned to paint twelve of the judges of the State of Ohio for instalment of the new Court House erected at Youngstown, the capital of that prosperous state. The Vindicator of Youngstown, which is the second iron centre of America with Pittsburg in the lead, on Nov. 6th devoted a full page to the work of Miss Stevenson. In the course of the article it is stated: "Miss Stevenson has pleased all who have had the pleasure of inspecting the canvases by the artistic way in which she has handled difficult subjects of portraiture. Her wonderful talent is perhaps best seen in her marvelous reproductions of living likenesses of judges who have 'passed on' many years ago and of whom but the poorest daguerotypes or photos are in existence. From the standpoint of art alone many of her present portraits are masterpieces of this class of painting aside from their value as likenesses."

Florida Lands

A campaign having for its aim the establishment of fruit farm colonies in Florida has been going on for years, and has been instrumental in diverting a great number of settlers to the fertile and semi-tropical Atlantic Coast state. Occasionally we here in Alberta receive the literature sent abroad by the promoters of these schemes—literature which sets forth the fertility of the soil, the salubrity of climate, the surety of good returns to the industrious. That the literature at one time caused an Albertan to sell out and make for Florida is proof of the ability of those who prepare it. But that the same Albertan returned to again settle in the sunny province is also proof that land on the eastern slopes of the Rockies is hard to beat. The rich soil which the geological processes of aeons have been preparing for the human family, the bright clear sunshine, the glorious crisp, clear winters, make Alberta first choice of all the provinces and states of the American continent. He who disbelieves this may travel far afield, but must eventually be convinced of it.

CHAPTER XXXII.

IN THE SAME GRAVE WITH SKAGGS.

DOWN in the village of Ararat there were signs of a vast commotion. Early risers and the guards were flying from house to house, shouting the news.

Outside the harbor lay the low, savage looking ship. Its guns were pointed directly at the helpless town. Its decks were swarming with white clothed men.

The plague was forgotten. The strategy that had driven off the ships of peace was lost in the face of this ugly creature of war. Rasula's reign of strategy was ended.

"They will not fire! They dare not!" he was shrieking as he dashed back and forth along the dock. "It is chance! They do not come for Chase! Believe in me! The tug! The tug! They must not land!"

The crash of the long unused six pounder at the chateau, followed almost immediately by a great roar from one of the cruiser's guns, brought the panic to a crisis.

The islanders scattered like chaff before the wind, looking wild eyed over their shoulders in dread of the pursuing cannon ball, dodging in and out among the houses and off into the foothills.

Rasula, undaunted, but crazed with disappointment, stuck to his colors on the deserted dock. He cursed and begged. In time two or three more canny, realizing that they were in an early peace offering, stepped out beside him. Others followed by example, and still others ventured forward to protest innocence and loyalty.

They heard of the merciless American gunner, and they knew in their souls that he could shoot the island into atoms before nightfall.

The native lawyer harangued them and cursed them and at last brought them to understand in a feeble way that no harm could come to them if they faced the situation boldly. The Americans would not land on British soil; it would precipitate war with England. They would not dare to attempt a bombardment; Chase was a lion, a mountain, a dog! After shouting himself hoarse in his frenzy of despair he finally succeeded in forcing the men to get up steam in the company's tug.

All this time the officers of the American warship were dividing their attention between land and sea. Another vessel was coming up out of the misty horizon. The men on board knew it to be a British man-of-war!

Suddenly a party of white men approached the startled Rasula. A hundred eager hands were extended, a hundred Mohammedans beat their heads in abject submission.

Hollingsworth Chase, Lord Deppingham and a familiar figure in an ill fitting red jacket and forage cap strode firmly, defiantly between the rows of humble Japatties. Close behind them came a tall, resolute grenadier of the Rapp-Thorberg army.

"Make way there! Make way!" Mr. Bowles was crying, brandishing the antique broadsword that had come down to Wyckholme from the dark ages. "Stand aside for the British government! Make way for the American!"

Rasula's jaw hung limp in the face of this amazing exhibition of courage on the part of the enemy. He was glaring insanely at the calm, triumphant face of the man from Brodney's, who was now advancing upon him with the assurance of a conqueror.

"You see, Rasula, I have called for the cruiser, and it has come at my bidding." Turning to the crowd that surged up from behind, cowed and cringing, Chase said: "It rests with you. If I give the word that ship will blow you from the face of the earth. I am your friend, people. I would do you no harm, but good. You have been misled by Rasula. Rasula, you are not a fool. You can save yourself even now. I am here as the servant of these people, not as their master. I intend to remain here until I am called back by the man who sent me to you. You have."

Rasula uttered a shriek of rage. He had been crouching back among his cohorts, panting with fury. Now he sprang forward, murder in his eyes.

His arm was raised, and a great pistol was leveled at the breast of the man who faced him so coolly, so confidently. Deppingham shouted and took a step forward to divert the aim of the frenzied lawyer.

A revolver cracked behind the tall American, and Rasula stopped in his tracks. There was a great hole in his forehead. His eyes were bursting. He sank to the ground dead!

The soldier from Rapp-Thorberg, a smoking pistol in his hand, the other raised to his helmet, stepped to the side of Hollingsworth Chase.

"By order of her serene highness, sir," he said quietly.

"Good God!" gasped Chase, passing his hand across his brow. Deppingham, repressing a shudder, addressed the stunned natives:

"Take the body away. May that be the end of all assassins!"

The King's Own came alongside the American vessel in less than an hour. Accompanied by the British agent, Mr. Bowles, Chase and Deppingham left the dock in the company's tug and steamed out toward the two monsters. The American had made no move to send men ashore.

Standing on the forward deck of the swift little tug, Chase unconcernedly accounted for the timely arrival of the two cruisers.

"Three weeks ago I sent out letters by the mail steamer, to be delivered to the English or American commanders, wherever they might be found. Undoubtedly they were met with in the same port. That is why I was so positive that help would come sooner or later. I knew that if I brought the cruisers my power over these people would never be disturbed again."

"My word!" exclaimed the admiring Bowles.

"Chase, you may be theatrical, but you are the most dependable chap the world has ever known," said Deppingham, and he meant it.

The warships remained off the harbor all that day. The British captain consented to leave a small detachment of marines in the town to protect Chase and the bank. To a man the islanders pledged fealty to the cause of peace and justice. They shouted the names of Chase and Allah in the same breath and demanded of the latter that he preserve the former's beard for all eternity.

The King's Own was to convey the liberated heirs to Aden, whither the cruiser was bound. At that port a P. and O. steamer would pick them up. One white man elected to stay on the island with Hollingsworth Chase, who steadfastly refused to desert his post until Sir John Brodney indicated that his mission was completed. That one man was the wearer of the red jacket, the bearer of the king's commission in Japan, the undaunted Mr. Bowles.

The Princess Geneva, the wistful light deepening hourly in her blue gray eyes, avoided being alone with the man whom she was leaving behind. She had made up her mind to accept the fate inevitable. He had reconciled himself to the ending of an impossible dream. There was nothing more to say except farewell.

The last day dawned. The sun smiled down upon them. The soft breeze of the sea whispered the curse of destiny into their ears. It crooned the song of heritage; it called her back to the fastnesses where love may not venture in.

The chateau was in a state of upheaval. The exodus was beginning. The princess waited until the last moment. She went to him. He was standing apart from the rest, coldly indifferent to the pangs he was suffering.

"I shall love you always," she said simply, giving him her hand—"always, Hollingsworth." Her eyes were wide and hopeless; her lips were white.

He bowed his head. "May God give you all the happiness that I wish for you," he said. "The end!"

She looked steadily into his eyes for a long time, searching his soul for the hope that never dies. Then she gently withdrew her hands and stood away from him, humbled in her own soul.

"Yes," she whispered "Goodbye." He straightened his shoulders and drew a deep breath through compressed nostrils. "Goodbye! God bless you!" was all that he said.

She left him standing there. The wall between them was too high, too impregnable, for even love to storm.

Lady Deppingham came to him there a moment later. "I am sorry," she said tenderly. "Is there no hope?" "There is no hope—for her!" he said bitterly. "She was condemned too long ago."

On the pier they said goodbye to him. He was laughing as gayly and as blithely as if the world held no sorrows in all its mighty grasp.

"I'll look you up in London," he said to the Deppinghams. "Remember, the real trial is yet to come. Goodbye, Browne. Goodbye, all. You may come again another day."

The launch slipped away from the pier. He and Bowles stood there, side by side, pale faced, but smiling, waving their handkerchiefs. He felt that Geneva was still looking into his eyes even when the launch crept up under the walls of the distant ship.

Slowly the great vessel got under way. The American cruiser was already low on the horizon. There was a single shot from the King's Own, a reverberating farewell.

Hollingsworth Chase turned away at last. There were tears in his eyes, and there were tears in those of Mr. Bowles.

"Bowles," said he, "it's a beastly shame they didn't think to say goodbye to old man Skaggs. He's in the same grave with us."

TWO MODEST ATHLETES.

Famous British Oarsmen Have Visited Canada—Unassuming Persons.

The British amateur oarsmen appear to be unique figures in the athletic world. They are among the few men who have been prominent on the sporting pages of the world without contracting the advertising habit, and when Hon. Rupert Guinness visited Toronto a few weeks ago he was not preceded by announcements nor did he try to get into the pub's eye. When interviewed, it was as a politician that he expressed himself, and talked of colonial preference and tariff reform instead of speaking the last word regarding the sporting events of the moment. In fact, it seems hard for Canadians to believe that a man who had twice won the Diamond Sculls could be so modest. Hon. Rupert Guinness is one of England's gentleman athletes, and his stalwart figure and quick movements indicate the benefits of the life he has led. It may be added that he has not confined his career to taking part in and talking about athletics, for he is now a Unionist member of Parliament, and has also served as a soldier.

He was the first of a party of oarsmen who were present at the Canadian Henley in 1908. He came with a crew which he had been coaching in the United States, and had been at the course for a day before it became known that one of the best oarsmen of the day was present. Mr. Nickalls did not make himself conspicuous, neither did he talk of the superiority of the English style or the English scullers.

There is a story told concerning him which states that he had no thought of adopting that attitude. A week before the races at St. Catharines, a Canadian sculler had fallen out of his boat while taking part in the Olympic races in England. A sporting man was making fun of the sculler, which Toronto oarsmen had made in England on various occasions, and remarked to Mr. Nickalls: "I suppose you Englishmen think we are too slow to take such long trips to learn to row?"

"Perhaps we are especially justified in thinking that when you carry off some of our pet trophies," replied the British oarsman ironically.

Mexico's Interior.

Mexico's interior is a high tableland upon which are located nearly all the populous cities, and the climate is so cool that the Mexicans have not yet acquired the habit of drinking cold water.

Curly Hair.

Short, thick, curly hair is an indication of great natural strength.

Largest Monolith.

The tallest monument is the Washington obelisk, 555 feet high, but the largest monolith is in Karak, Egypt, being 106 feet high. The highest chimney, measuring 508 feet, is in Great Falls, Mont.

The Octopus.

Like its beautiful brother the argonaut, the octopus defies its enemies by ejecting ink, but the octopus is so subtle and clever that he can vary the color of his ink according to the color of the ground he is passing over, and as he is very active and darts about at lightning speed he constantly escapes being caught.

DANGERS OF RUNNERS.

Walter Knox of Orillia Has Faced a Revolver Barrel Before Now.

Stories of professional foot runners being shot at for winning and shot at for losing races are usually reminiscent of the good old days of twenty years ago, when the country was flooded with crooked sprinters and half-milers. The other day Walter R. Knox, the famous Orillia athlete, dropped into town, and the conversation rounded to gun-play over foot races. Now, Knox is a silent fellow. He has by hard experience learned the wisdom of keeping his mouth shut and his ears open. Therefore when he rounded to and commenced to talk about his adventures in that line, I was more than surprised that he should loosen up. However, it is a clinch he never considered for a second that his tales of tight quarters would ever reach the calum of public print. Even at that the stories were only revealed after much adroit questioning or polite silence at the proper time.

"Down in Mexico I bucked up against a tough proposition," remarked Walter. "I had to give a runner down there a three-yard start for a big bet. The night before an ugly-looking greaser came to my room and said: 'I know you won't win this race to-morrow.'"

"Why won't I?" I asked.

"I know you won't," he said, producing a 'Gat,' with a bore as big as a military rifle. 'I'll be 75 yards down the course, and if you're ahead there I'll bore you, and if you win half a dozen Mexicans will be at the tape to carve you up. The chief of police was a friend of mine, so I told him. He said: 'You run and win and I'll look after you.'"

"When the gun cracked for the race I drew level with my man early, and then dropped back and watched for the greaser at the 75-yard mark. He was there. When I got by I shot to the front and won. Then I trotted back by the greaser, and when he made for me the chief made for him, and there was no trouble."

"Up in British Columbia the night before a race I received a message to meet a certain man. I told my backers, and they told me to meet him and see what was afoot."

"Before I went I threw on my rain coat, and, putting an automatic pistol in the side pocket, I met the man. He took me a quarter of a mile out of town, where two other chaps met us. Then he said: 'You — —, if you win that race to-morrow I'll kill you' and he poked the gun into my ribs, hard enough to hurt. I had my hand in my pocket with the gun trained on his heart. I knew if he pulled the trigger the clutch of my fingers would give him his receipt."

"Did you win?"

"Yes, I did."

"What happened?"

"Well, this chap's friends were at the tape when I broke it, but they made their sneak. When I left the crowd to get my clothes the chap who poked me with the 'Gat,' started after me. He was a bad one, too, but my backer, a crippled hotelman, watched for him and when he poked his head through the crowd my way knocked him senseless with his cane or crutch. He went down like a poleaxed steer, I thought he was killed."

"They've had the gun on me more than once, but they have four-fused so often about getting me that I am more afraid of some disappointed bettor potting me without saying a word than I am about these chaps who show guns and knives, and tell you what they are going to do."

"They got me once in Seattle, but they drugged me. The gave me colorless iodine before the race. I was dizzy all day in spells. When that race came I never started away so fast in all my life. I went like a bullet, and was in deadly terror lest one of those staggering dizzy spells would hit me and I would lose."

Knox has a couple of bullet scars, but he did not receive them over foot races. Those who know Knox will say he is the gamest, coolest athlete who ever stood in spikes, and claim that he could if he cared be the all-around champion to-day.

He has been clocked a hundred in 9.35 seconds by good men, and can always beat 10.15 if he has to, is a fair 220 man, jumps 23 feet and over all the time, pole vaults well enough to beat Eddie Archibald; puts the shot 44 feet, the discus 124, and can high jump 5 feet 10 inches. Knox is only a 160 pound man, at that, but he is a good caretaker. He will likely go to England next summer, and if he does he'll beat Postle, Eastman, and that crowd.—Toronto Star.

Working Knowledge.

Although the joke is on himself, a prominent Brantford, Ont., manufacturer considered this one too good to keep. He and a man who is head of another Brantford industry spent the summer on the continent, and while in Italy they decided to take in Grand Opera.

They were feeling at peace with the world and happy in it, so while they should have been helping everybody else in the audience to preserve absolute silence, they carried on quite a conversation. Their feeling of good fellowship taking in more than themselves, the one who tells this incident turned to the Italian in the next seat and, with a view to starting a conversation, asked, "Do you speak English?"

The Italian's answer promptly closed the conversation. He said, "Yes, I know very good English. Shut up!"

Y.M.C.A. IS HIS HOBBY

E. R. WOOD OF TORONTO IS AN INDEFATIGABLE WORKER.

New President of the International Convention Has Labored In Cause For a Long Time—Is Manager of the Dominion Securities, and Also Holds Down a Number of Jobs on the Boards of Various Corporations.

Mr. E. R. Wood is now president of the international Y.M.C.A. convention, which concluded this year's labors in Toronto recently. It would have been difficult for Mr. Wood to have got this honor without having earned it. Merely because he is a financier and a strong church worker would not entitle him to it. He is a day-in-day-out believer in and worker for the Y.M.C.A. movement, which of late years has happily broadened its platform sufficiently to permit men of Mr. E. R. Wood's calibre to take prominent positions.

MR. E. R. WOOD.

A thin, shrewd-looking man, Mr. Wood moves quietly and quickly, and makes no poses. Since he came up from Peterboro' way—that source of so many brainy financial men in Toronto where, like his forerunner, Senator Cox, he was once telegraph operator—he has made progress at very swift rate in the financial world. He began in Toronto on the staff of the Central Canada Loan & Savings Co.; is at present manager of the Dominion Securities Corporation; vice-president of the National Trust Co., and a director of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., the Western and the Canada Life Assurance Co. and the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Incidentally he is a Methodist, and a working one. He takes as much interest in some phases of church work as he does in finance. But he never makes a noise. His election as president of the Y.M.C.A. convention is the first really public place he has taken outside of finance.

Actor, Soldier, and Aviator.

During the South African war Mr. Robert Loraine saw much service, and on two occasions was offered commissions. Shortly after his return from the front he was sitting in the Carlton Hotel, London, surrounded by an admiring throng of fair cousins, who looked upon him as a hero. Altogether he was quite pleased with himself, he says. A brother actor, whom he had not seen for some time, happened to pass, and, looking at the battle-stained actor, remarked, "Halloa, old chap, you are looking fit! Been at Brighton?"

Mr. Loraine tells another story against himself. In his early theatrical days it was the custom of one of the managers to criticize every individual performance at each new town the company visited after the fall of the curtain on the stage. One night he did not say anything to young Loraine. He reminded the manager of his omission by saying, "As you did not say anything about my performance, I take it it was all right." Then came the icy reply, "I did not say anything about your show, because what I have to say to you I must say in private."

A Dramatic Situation.

Beau Brummel was once sitting at a table with one Bligh, who was known to be insane. The Beau, having lost a considerable stake, affected, in his farcical way, a very tragic air and cried out, "Waiter, bring me a flat candlestick and a pistol," upon which Bligh, who was sitting opposite to him, calmly produced two loaded pistols from his coat pocket, which he placed on the table, and said, "Mr. Brummel, if you are really desirous to put a period to your existence I am extremely happy to offer you the means without troubling the waiter." The effect upon those present may be easily imagined at finding these weapons in the company of a known madman who had loaded weapons about him.

A LIMIT TO PARTYISM

SHOULD BE NO POLITICS IN IMPERIAL DEFENCE QUESTION

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper Expresses Strong Opinions on Question of Navy and Imperial Defence—Believes that Both Political Parties Should Unite to Abolish Political Patronage.

Halifax, N. S.—The doctrine that there should be no party when Canadian public men and people come to consider questions of national and imperial defence was preached before a sympathetic and enthusiastic company by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper at a Canadian Club luncheon in his honor.

Sir Hibbert, in support of his opinion that there should be no party in such matters as defence and our position in the Empire, showed that our great national movements in the past had been guided by opposing leaders, who had come together in days of crisis and practical coalition had been effected to serve the country's needs. Sir Hibbert touched on the fact that the lure of gold in business life made it more difficult in the days of Laurier and Borden to obtain able men ready to serve their country than it was for Brown and Macdonald or Howe to enlist the greatest men in the country's service.

He also urged that both political parties should unite utterly to abolish political patronage, the curse, he said, of all governments.

Sir Hibbert thought there was a great misconception in regard to the present agitation in Quebec. If Quebec seemed to vote against militarism and a navy, in imperial interests it should be remembered that there are men in Ontario and on the plains who do not wish to contribute one cent to national or imperial defence. These men must be educated. Because of this we find Laurier dealing in language that might well puzzle a habitant, though he is proceeding on the right line. He is calling for funds for our militia and navy, which will soon amount to $10,000,000 a year, and yet he uses such expressions as, "We must avoid the maelstrom of militarism as it is in England."

With conditions like this, what an opportunity there is for an opposition leader to take advantage of it! Though he did not class Mr. Borden among political leaders who would stoop to this. The men, he thought, were living in a fool's paradise, who said, "We in Canada need do nothing for imperial defence."

There should be unity of parties, first, to make Canadians absolutely loyal to a policy of sharing in the defence of the Empire and then to secure the abolition of the system of political patronage, the curse of every government, whether Liberal or Conservative. We should share the titanic burden which rests on the fatherland. Let us drive to the four winds the Bourassas and Monks who would destroy and render of no effect the dreams of Howe and the men who strove to build and ennoble an Empire in which Canada should have an honorable part.

WOULD SAVE WORLD BILLIONS
Under Present System It Costs the World $2,250,000,000 Annually to Maintain Peace

Hamilton, Ont.—The Canadian Club was addressed recently by U. J. Ledoux, of the Boston Canadian Club, on the subject of "International Peace." He has been deputed by Mr. Andrew Carnegie to make a report on the best means of applying his magnificent gift towards the world's peace, and gave an address on the subject.

He said that the British chancellor of the exchequer had said that it costs the world annually $2,250,000,000 to maintain peace by the present loans, and added that by reserving $500,000,000 to police the world, a saving of $1,750,000,000 should be made annually if all the national controversies were settled through the international peace court.

ON THEIR RETURN TRIP

Duke and Duchess of Connaught on Their Way Back from South Africa

Santa Cruz, Tenerife.—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, returning to England from a visit to South Africa, where they opened the first parliament of the union of South Africa, have arrived here. They encountered a heavy storm en route but the steamer Balmoral Castle sustained no damage. They were accorded royal honors when they landed. They visited various points of interest, then went to Orotava, on the north-west coast. The duke and duchess are accompanied by their daughter, Princess Patricia.

WIRELESS STATIONS IN ALBERTA

J. K. Cornwall Will Equip His Steamers with Apparatus During Winter

Edmonton.—By the time navigation opens on the northern rivers in the spring, the steamers that ply the Athabasca river and Lesser Slave lake, for the Northern Transportation Company, will be equipped with that modern invention, the wireless telegraph, and it is also possible that there will be a string of wireless stations through the north that will be in touch with some of the more northern wireless stations on the Pacific coast.

This announcement was made by Jas. K. Cornwall, president of the Northern Transportation Company, through whose efforts the wireless stations are being established. Nearly a year ago Mr. Cornwall first decided to install the wireless equipment on his boats on the northern waterways and arrangements were made to have the apparatus installed this winter. Some of the apparatus has already been shipped.

An experimental station is now being installed at Athabasca Landing, where experiments will be undertaken in an effort to get into touch with one of the wireless stations on the North Pacific coast, probably the station at Port Simpson. It is expected that other stations will be installed in the north, probably one at Lesser Slave Lake and Peace River crossing. The apparatus will be installed on the steamers for next summer's navigation.

MANUEL IS TO STUDY

Will Attend Oxford Lectures—Travel in Canada and Other Parts of World to Learn Methods

London.—Ex-King Manuel does not think of abandoning the sovereignty of Portugal, but is content to abide his time before reclaiming the throne. He is resolved, according to a statement made, to devote the interval fitting himself for the duties of an enlightened sovereign. He leaves Wood Norton, the residence of the Duke of Orleans, where he has been a guest since his arrival in England, next month, and will reside in a house taken for him at Richmond, Surrey. He will attend lectures at Oxford university and other centres of learning, as an ordinary student, without seeking a degree. When he has completed his lecture course he will make a tour of the world, especially studying British colonial methods. The tour will include the United States, where he will travel purely as a student of administrative affairs. Canada, the far east, Australia and South Africa will also be visited.

FOR PEACE OF THE WORLD

A Commission May be Appointed to Study the World Conditions

Ottawa.—Ex-American Consul Ledoux of the committee of the Canadian club of Boston, who is addressing the clubs of Canada, Chambers of commerce, etc., on the international question left recently for Montreal after interviewing the prime minister, Mr. R. L. Borden, and the members of the cabinet on the possibilities of the appointment of a commission similar to that authorized by Congress to study world conditions in view of a possible reduction or armaments.

Mr. Ledoux was a member of the fled with his cordial reception, and hoped that before long the public will give to this new movement a support necessary for proper legislative action.

Mr. Ledoux said that he was gratified by the delegation which advocated before the committee of foreign affairs the appointment of a peace commission authorized by the last United States Congress.

BANK MANAGER UNDER ARREST

Charged With Falsifying the Returns to the Minister of Finance

Toronto, Ont.—A development of the suspension of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, was the arrest of W. R. Travers, general manager, on a charge of having made false statements in the returns to the minister of finance and the receiver-general regarding the affairs of the bank.

The arrest took place on a warrant on instructions of J. Seymour Corley, K.C., crown attorney.

NO DEFENCE FILED BY BANKS

It is Said the Banks are Awaiting Instructions from Headquarters

Edmonton.—No defence has yet been filed here in the courts by the banks in the action against them by the provincial government to secure control of the Waterways money. The banks are awaiting instructions from headquarters. It is likely that the general solicitors of the Royal bank in Montreal will come to the city to fight the case.

700 Men For the Coronation

Ottawa.—Details of the composition of the coronation contingent are under consideration by the militia council.

It is probable that a regiment of 700, representing every unit of militia, will be taken, and that in a short time different corps will be asked to select a certain number of men, the pick of the regiments, to join the contingent.

SUPERVISION OF GRAIN

COMMISSION TO ADMINISTER GRAIN AND INSPECTION ACT

Government Drafting a Bill to Deal with Control of Terminal Elevators, and Authorizing the Government to Take Over Elevators at Any Time—Farmers Willing to Give Plans a Fair Trial.

Ottawa.—The bill which Sir Richard Cartwright is drawing up to deal with the control of terminal elevators and which has been explained to the executives of the Western Grain Growers' Association will, it is learned, provide for the appointment of a commission of three to administer the existing grain and inspection act. This commission will have drastic powers to deal with the supervision of grain in terminal elevators and to prevent fraud by mixing or other means. The bill will also give the Government authority to take over the elevators.

The question of the advisability of purchasing the elevators will be left in abeyance until it is seen to what degree the administration of the elevators by a commission is a success.

The farmers' representatives, it is stated, while preferring that the Government should have adopted, in its entirety, the proposal of complete Government ownership and control, said that they would not express a definite opinion until the government plans were given a fair trial. It was maintained on behalf of the Government and department that better results are likely to be accomplished through an independent commission than under a scheme of Government ownership and control, and that it would not be wise to undertake the larger scheme until control by commission has been given a fair trial.

THE ARGENTINE TRADE

A Special Trade Commissioner Has Been Appointed to Look After It

Ottawa.—The government has decided to make an effort to develop a larger trade with the Argentine Republic, and an order-in-council has been passed creating a Canadian Trade Commissionership for that country with headquarters at Buenos Ayres.

H. R. Poussat, trade commissioner at Durban, who has a knowledge of Spanish, will become Canada's first trade commissioner in the Argentine, and J. H. Chesley, commissioner at Capetown, will be given complete charge in South Africa with headquarters at Durban. Canadian trade with the Argentine Republic at the present time amounts to over $5,000,000.

Mr. Meyer, consul general for Argentina in Canada, has been urging the appointment of a trade commissioner at Buenos Ayres for some time past.

A LINK OF 400 MILES

Then G. T. P. is Finished—Work Will Then Be Started on the Road to Vancouver

Montreal.—E. J. Chamberlain, general manager of the G.T.P., was in Montreal recently, having just come back from a trip over the route of construction in British Columbia. He says now a stretch of only four hundred miles separates the Pacific and eastern ends of the G.T.P.

He is confident that this will be finished in time for the opening of the line through to the coast early in 1913. The line from Fort George to Vancouver will be started as soon as the main line is finished.

A COMPLETE ENQUIRY

Attorney-General Says Thorough Investigation Must be Made Into Mine Disaster

Edmonton.—The attorney-general's department is Edmonton has issued instructions to the coroner's jury in the inquest into the Bellevue mine disaster that a full and complete investigation must be made into the whole affair in order that the exact causes of the explosion which resulted in the death of thirty-one miners may be ascertained. This was the statement made by Deputy Attorney General Clarry in the absence of Attorney General Mitchell.

Hair Market Will Be Glutted

Victoria, B.C.—The date set for the removal of the queue from the heads of male Chinese was Dec. 5, and when the steamship America, which has arrived here, left China, the edict was being generally observed. Assuming that nearly 200,000,000 queues will be cut off, the human hair market will be glutted. The prevailing style of hair dressing in the United States calls for much artificial hair, but not nearly so much as is available.

Edmonton Exhibition Active

Edmonton.—The Edmonton exhibition association will undertake the construction of a huge stock pavilion on the new grounds, which may be used as an exhibition hall as well, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and which will be modelled along the lines of the stock pavilion of the Minnesota state fair.

It's easier to make an enemy of a friend than it is to make a friend of an enemy.

RUBBED OVER THE SORE POINTS

That is the Way a Delegate Put it At a Meeting in Montreal

Montreal.—"Yonder in Saskatchewan we believe we are the hub of Canada. That's where all eyes are fixed," declared Fred W. Green, of the Western farmers' delegation, speaking at the Canadian club.

The subject was "Western farmers, their ideals in relation to recent views expressed by Westerners at Ottawa." In his address Mr. Green did not go into details of what Western farmers wanted in regard to the tariff.

There are many diversified views on the tariff out West and they were only at A.B.C. yet, he said. The problems to today are the cities, but the solution is in the country.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright showed their views very well when we saw them last week," he said, "but—" and the speaker spread his hands out in indication that they had tried to rub over the sore points.

"We men on the plains are not easily hoodwinked or fooled," he added.

"East and West," he concluded, "should work together for British ideals and should view Canada as a whole."

SPIES GOT FOUR YEARS

Admitted That They Had Sketched Plans of German Fortress at Borkum

Leipzig.—Capt. Bernard Frederick Trench, British Royal Marines, a member of the well-known distinguished Irish family; and Lieut. Vivian Brandon, British royal navy, brother-in-law of Sir William Bull, M.P., have been placed on trial on a charge of espionage on the German fortifications at Borkum.

Capt. Trench, examined, admitted he originated a plan for sketching the fortress at Borkum. The president of the court, at the proposal of the imperial prosecutor, declared the proceedings public.

The prosecutor said the British newspapers had told the British public the Germans were continually spying on England for the invasion of that country. Here, said the prosecutor, are two British officers on the active list whose papers and admissions showed plainly they came to Germany to gather information which could only serve to facilitate an unforeseen attack on Germany. The utmost publicity was declared advisable.

Sentences of four years each were imposed on the two officers, who will be imprisoned in a fortress.

BIGGEST RUSH IN OUR HISTORY

The Publicity Commissioner Gives Some Very Interesting Information

Edmonton.—"Evidence is increasing every day to show that Alberta will have the biggest influx of settlers in its history next spring," said Publicity Commissioner Hotchkiss. "The foundation of this influx was laid during the past summer, when advance guards of an army of settlers that will come next year came to the province to spy out the land."

"Many families in the Eastern states are spending this winter in getting rid of their lands in order that they will be in position to move out West early in the spring."

Mr. Hotchkiss believes that the rush next spring will be the greatest ever in the history of the province.

KIPLING LIKES "MEDICINE HAT"

Writes to Eastern City Hoping That No Change Will be Made in Name

Medicine Hat.—A letter has been received here from Rudyard Kipling, in which the poet comments on the proposal to change the name of the town. Referring to the statement that certain newspaper men across the line had seen fit to joke about the name he quotes several names even more strange in vogue in the States, and winds up by saying:

"To my mind the name of Medicine Hat has an advantage over all the names I have quoted. It echoes the old Cree and Blackfoot tradition of red mystery and romance that once filled the prairie."

Come to Canada to Become Laborers

London.—The principal of Huron College, writing to the League of Empire, says: "We get quite a number of young men who come to Canada to learn farming, and who after a year or two, discover that this is polite fiction for becoming more or less merely farm laborers."

The Archbishop Western Canada Fund, now totals £36,700.

Term May be Extended

Ottawa.—In connection with Earl Grey's extension of office, it is rumored that it is possible that his term may be extended another year.

This will be on account of the Duke of Connaught's inability to absent himself from Great Britain during the king's visit to India and the colonies in the spring of 1912.

Shackleton Going North

London.—It is stated that Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton, who reached the farthest south in a recent expedition, will sail for the Arctic regions in June. Spitzbergen is the objective point. The expedition will be solely for scientific and geographical purposes.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON I.—FIRST QUARTER, FOR JAN. 1, 1911.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings xii, 1-24. Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text, Prov. xiii, 20—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our last lesson in regular Old Testament studies was in December, 1908, and in connection with the dedication of the temple, and we asked special attention to the fact that the desire of the Lord was that through Israel and the temple all the people of the earth might know the Lord as the only God and put their trust in Him (1 Kings viii, 43-60). It is the eternal purpose of God that all nations shall yet know Him through Israel and worship Him (Jer. iii, 17), and this was foreshadowed in the days of Solomon, when not only the queen of Sheba, but all the earth, sought to hear the wisdom of God through Solomon and brought Him gifts (1 Kings x, 1, 10, 24, 25). There was another foreshadowing when the wise men from the East brought their treasures to Jesus as an infant and worshipped Him as the King of the Jews (Matt. ii, 1, 2, 17).

Perhaps the deceitfulness and desperate wickedness of the heart were never more manifest than in Solomon, of whom it is written: "There was no king like him who was beloved of his God." Nevertheless even him did outlandish women cause to sin (Neh. xiii, 26). His wives turned away his heart after their gods, and therefore all the kingdom was taken from him except the tribes of Judah and Benjamin (1 Kings xi, 9-13), for Jerusalem's sake, the city which He hath chosen, and for the sake of David, His chosen servant.

Canon Fausset thinks that the Song of Solomon represents his first love to Jehovah in youth, Proverbs his matured experience in middle age and Ecclesiastes the sad retrospect of old age, the latter giving probable evidence of his repentance. As to his son and successor, it may be that Solomon had him in mind when he wrote, "Who knoweth whether the man that shall be after me shall be a wise man or a fool? Eccl. ii, 18, 19; Ps. xxxix, 6, is always true of those who gather riches, 'He heapeth up riches and knoweth not who shall gather them.'"

The way of man is not in himself. It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps (Jer. x, 23), but the counsel of the Lord will stand, and He will do all His pleasure (Isa. xli, 10). Although all Israel came to Shechem to make Rehoboam king, the Lord had purposed otherwise because of Solomon's sin. When the ten tribes revolted under Jeroboam because of Rehoboam's threats of increased oppression by the advice of his young men and Rehoboam gathered Judah and Benjamin to fight against Israel and bring the kingdom back to himself, the Lord sent His messenger to forbid Judah to fight against Israel and said, "Return every man to his house, for this thing is from me" (verses 21-24). It is also written in verse 15 of our lesson that the king hearkened not unto the people, for the cause was from the Lord, that He might perform His saying which the Lord spake by Abijah. Had the king listened to the counsel of the old men who stood before Solomon, his father, while he yet lived (verses 6, 7) the kingdom might have remained united, but it was not so to be.

Rehoboam therefore strengthened himself in Jerusalem and reigned seventeen years, in the city which the Lord had chosen. The priests and Levites in all Israel, being cast off by Jeroboam, resorted to him, as did also some out of all the tribes of Israel who set their hearts to seek the Lord God of Israel and therefore came to Jerusalem to sacrifice unto the Lord God of their fathers (II Chron. xi, 13-16; xii, 13-14). Yet Rehoboam did evil and prepared not his heart to seek the Lord. When we remember that those who sit on the throne of the Lord as his representative (I Chron. xxix, 23) it makes their disobedience and misrepresentation of Him seem all the worse.

But what shall be said of us who are redeemed with the precious blood of Jesus Christ and who are here to represent Him and make His life manifest in these mortal bodies if we, instead of being separate and given wholly up to Him and filled with His spirit, become conformed to this evil age and walk in fellowship with it? As to the Lord working out His purposes in spite of people, good or bad, see how He defeated the counsel of Ahithophel by the counsel of Hushai, the friend of David (II Sam. xvii, 14).

We are on our way to a kingdom of peace and righteousness on this earth, when the Son of David shall sit on the throne of His father at Jerusalem and reign not only as King of Israel, but as King of kings and Lord of lords. We are offered a place with Him in His throne and to reign with Him (Rev. iii, 21; v, 9, 10); but, while our redemption, provided at infinite cost, is free to us and wholly of grace, our position in His kingdom will depend upon our faithfulness here.

The twelve apostles are to occupy twelve thrones with Him when He shall reign as King of Israel, but the privilege of the church, His body, shall be much greater, even as His bride, the true Adam and Eve over all the earth (Luke xxii, 29, 30; Col. iii, 4).

"I wish you had broken the news more gently," sighed the country editor, as the office boy dropped the type down a flight of steps.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHIOP

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL
The inventor of the telephone, comes from a family that has made a special study of sound and speech for three generations. His grandfather, Alexander Bell, invented a method for removing impediments of speech; his father, Alexander Melville Bell, was the inventor of "visible speech," a system to teach deaf-mutes to speak; and the third of the Alexanders, really "Alexander the Great" of his family, taught a piece of wire to carry the human voice many miles and deliver the message without a change.

He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1847, and after receiving his education at the High School and the University of his native town, went to London at the age of twenty to attend the University, but left on account of ill health, and in 1870 came to Canada with his father. Two years later he went to Boston, where he introduced his father's system of teaching the deaf, and supported himself by private classes. But the broader field of science attracted him most; in Scotland and Canada he had carried on experiments in multiple telegraphy which grew more fascinating as he proceeded, and in Boston he interested two wealthy men who supplied funds for his experiments; but he had to teach by day for his own support.

In 1874 came the first faint elusive germ of the telephone; it seemed such a wild-chance to his partners that they would not listen to it; they were practical men with no time for such dreams. In 1875, after completing his multiple telegraphy, he went to Washington and found his application for a patent had been contested by Elisha Gray, the great scientist. He was for a patent had been contested by Elisha Gray, the great scientist. He was for a patent had been contested by Elisha Gray, the great scientist. He was for a patent had been contested by Elisha Gray, the great scientist.

He returned to Boston with a client's energy but an almost empty purse. To complicate the situation he had fallen in love with Miss Hubbard, daughter of his friend and benefactor, and had a feeling of delicacy about asking the father of his fiancée for a loan. So in desperation he removed his "candle," and in June, 1876, almost by accident, stumbled on a clue that solved the problem. On February 14th, 1876, he filed his application for a patent, one hour later Elisha Gray filed a caveat on precisely the same plan, and on March 7th, 1876, Mr. Bell received his patent; it was number 174,465, one of the most important ever allowed in the history of America.

Midnight Flyer Cancelled

The last run of the midnight flyer was made on Tuesday, which the C.P.R. have been running tri-weekly from Calgary to Edmonton. According to the official notice, the last run has been made on the next couple of months by this popular train. It will be remembered that the service was inaugurated in June, the first of the year on a thirty days trial, and so popular was the flyer with the travelling public that its success was assured from the start. The runs have since that time been made regularly and have now been discontinued much later in the winter than was anticipated.

Through the fact that the new time tables of the company scheduled the tri-weekly night service as daily, it is taken that when the service is renewed next spring there will be another train put on the run so that a round trip may be made every twenty-four hours. It was first thought that the midnight service would cause such a shrinkage in the business of one of the regular morning and afternoon trains that one would of necessity have to be taken off, but this proved decidedly otherwise.

Centure Hotel Officials

After a thorough enquiry into the circumstances of the death of James O'Brien, the Grand Trunk Pacific stevedore, who was packed up dead on the afternoon of Christmas Day in the lavatory of the Grand Central Hotel, Edmonton, the coroner's jury Wednesday night returned a verdict that death was not the result of violence.

Seven hours were occupied by the jury in taking evidence. The verdict was as follows: "We find that James O'Brien, on the 26th day of December, 1910, in the basement or lavatory of the Grand Central Hotel, Edmonton, came to his death from suffocation, in accordance with the medical evidence, reduced and while under the influence of drink."

"The jury further wish to state that the management of this hotel is far from satisfactory and that the hotel company should be severely censured. We come to the conclusion from the evidence produced, which shows that the men were allowed to be in a drunken state in the lavatory of the hotel for hours on Sunday, Dec. 25, without any care or attention being given to them."

Eczema on Leg for 25 Years

I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My own doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off, but I said I would try the Cuticura Remedies first. He said, "try them if you like but I do not think they will do any good." At this time my leg was peeling from the knee down, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After the first two treatments the swelling went down and in two months' use of the Cuticura Remedies my leg was cured and the new skin grown on. The doctor could not believe his own eyes when he saw that Cuticura had cured me and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. But for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. I am truly grateful for the wonderful cure that Cuticura wrought. I have many grandchildren and they are frequent users of Cuticura and I always recommend it most highly as a sure and economical cure for skin troubles.

OLD-TIME FOOTBALL.

In 1175 the Game First Came into Popularity.

Football owes its origin to the Romans, who played with a ball of cloth or leather stuffed with flocks, called harpastum, or with a windbag, called follis.

It is not possible, says an English writer, to produce any direct evidence of the progress or popularity of the game in England prior to the year 1175. It is fairly conclusively established, however, that football goes back several centuries further than cricket. In 1175 William Fitzstephen, writing in his history of London, mentions the fact that it was the habit of the young men of the city to play at the well-known game of ball after dinner. And there can be no doubt that this game was football, but what its outstanding features were can only be a matter of guesswork. The game was confined to the lower classes; no rules existed for its control; the contests seem to have been more in the nature of general scrambles, the goals being placed at either end of a town or street; and the number of players seem to have been unlimited.

Although popular, it met with opposition from the authorities. Edward II., in 1314, forbade football under pain of imprisonment, owing to the "great noise in the city caused by hustling over large balls, from which many evils might arise, which God forbid." The game, nevertheless, progressed. In 1315 Edward III. ordered his sheriffs to suppress "such idle practices," because "the skill at shooting with arrows was almost totally laid aside for the purpose of various useless and unlawful games." But so persistent were the popular classes in this almost national pastime that Richard II. and his successors had to continue to proclaim against "tennis, football, and other games." This determined persecution had no appreciable effect, however.

The people persisted in the game they loved better than the law. James III. of Scotland also found it necessary to order quarterly practices of arms when "football and golf be utterly cried down and not to be used."

Played almost exclusively by the ignorant and rough, tabooed by the upper classes, accompanied by frequent deaths and serious injuries occasioned by the excessive brutality and ruffianism displayed, football was as deservedly persecuted in those days as it is encouraged and patronized by royalty to-day. That the game was still unlawful in the time of Elizabeth is evidenced by the fact that a Middlesex jury brought in a true bill against a number of persons who "with unknown malefactors to the number of 11 assembled themselves unlawfully and played a certain unlawful game called foote-ball, by means of which unlawful game there was amongst them a great affray likely to result in homicides and serious accidents."

Stoubbs, in his "Anatomy of Abuses in the Realm of England," describes football as a devilish pastime, resulting in brawling, murder and great effusion of blood. Yet so far the game was more handball than football. The gradual refinement and regulation of the game resulted in a decrease of its popularity, so that at the beginning of the nineteenth century the game almost disappeared altogether. Then the leading public schools took up the game, each in its own particular style. In 1855 the Blackheath and Richmond clubs were formed, and in 1863 the Football Association. In 1877 the number of players was reduced from 20 to 15.

Mammoths in England.

The discovery of remains, apparently those of a hippopotamus, a bison and other great beasts, in the peaceful County of Cambridgeshire, England, is an event of some interest and perhaps of some scientific interest.

It is well known, of course, in prehistoric ages the mammoths roamed England. Many remains of these early inhabitants of our isles have been found and more will probably be found when further excavations are made.

In particular, we remark in passing, that the great plain at Aldershot seems to offer good opportunities to the scientific enquirer, for few who have examined it in even a cursory manner can doubt that it was at one time an inland sea, and this view is supported by the discovery of shells in many exposed parts of the neighborhood.

Be that as it may, the evidence that the hippopotamus made his home in the neighborhood of the present University of Cambridge seems conclusive, although he prudently disappeared long before the first professor appeared on the scene to disturb his haunts by the inconvenient scientific enquiries that occasionally embarrass the modern undergraduate.

England was in those days a tropical country, and evidently joined to the continent by a strip of land that has since disappeared, but the boggy lands of the Fen district need not otherwise have changed much until they were drained, for the soft, marshy soil and pools would offer a suitable home to the hippopotamus.

Toronto, Ont. (Special).—Mrs. Alberta Giffin, a nurse, living at 40 Wright Ave., this city, has been interviewed in regard to her reported cure of nervous or Kidney Trouble by Dodd's Kidney Pills. She states that the report is true in every particular.

"My sickness," Mrs. Giffin says, "was caused from a nervous breakdown and what the doctors called incurable Bright's Disease brought on by cold and long weeks of nursing. I suffered for five years."

"I was treated by three doctors and was a patient in two hospitals but gradually got weaker. Reading the experience of other sufferers like myself led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. At that time I was so weak and nervous I could not hold a cup of tea without spilling some of its contents."

"I felt a benefit after taking the first box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and eight or nine boxes cured me so completely I can now walk a mile without fatigue."

If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills yourself almost any of your neighbors will tell you they always cure Kidney Disease in any form.

When You Feel Cross

And are easily worried and irritated chances are that the liver is not right and you need

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Life is too short to be cross and grouchy. You not only make yourself miserable, but also those about you.

Don't blame others. Blame yourself for not keeping the liver right.

When healthy and active the liver filters the poisonous bile from the blood and passes it into the intestines where it aids the process of digestion and keeps the bowels regular.

But when the liver balks the whole system becomes clogged with a mass of fermenting food, which gives rise to gas on the stomach, belching of wind, pains about the heart, and a multitude of annoying symptoms which accompany indigestion and constipation.

There is nothing in the world which will more promptly afford you relief than Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This statement is true. A trial will convince you. This medicine acts definitely and directly on the liver and bowels, and cleanses the whole digestive and excretory system.

Mr. Theo. Bedard, Lac aux Sables, Portneuf county, Que., writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills the best treatment obtainable for indigestion and impure blood. They cured me of indigestion, from which I suffered for four years."

"This certificate is given without solicitation so that others may not waste their money buying medicines of no value when they can get Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, which I am convinced are the best."

A Londoner owning a country place near the capital engaged a stable boy. During his last stay at the place the owner did not see the boy for several days. Finally, however, having special need of the lad, it occurred to him that the stablehand was not exactly "on the job."

"Where the deuce do you keep yourself?" demanded the master of the place. "I don't believe I've seen you since you were engaged. Have you been asleep all this while?"

"Yes, sir," was the unexpected response, "I thought that was what you wanted, sir."

"What I wanted!" exclaimed the employer, amazed. "What are you driving at?"

"Well, sir," explained the lad, "your advertisement said you wanted a boy of sixteen, to sleep on the premises."

Pills for Nervous Troubles.—The stomach is the centre of the nervous system, and when the stomach suspends healthy action the result is manifest in disturbances of the nerves. If allowed to persist, nervous debility a dangerous ailment, may ensue. The first consideration is to restore the stomach to prompt action and there is no readier remedy for this than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Thousands can attest the virtue of these pills in curing nervous disorders.

"I am willing to make any sacrifice to win you," sighed the impecunious count.

"Oh, that isn't necessary," replied the heiress. "In case that I make up my mind that I want you, papa can pay the price."

On Monday 26th Dec a very social gathering was held at Mr. Wilsie's of Pine View, where the neighbors and residents met to celebrate Xmas and partake of the good things which abound at this time of the year. After dinner the time was given to songs and recitations, amongst those contributing to the latter were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, with a very pretty rendering of the "Old Arm Chair." A couple of recitations by J. Nedrie, and a few selections on the auto harp. "Killarney" was also very nicely sung by Mrs. F. Aldridge, who with Mr. Aldridge greatly assisted the vocal part of the program until the timely arrival of Santa Claus, who got busy with a well stocked Xmas Tree, on which he found something for nearly everyone.

KEEP US WARM. IF YOU
PLACE THEY WILL NOT ONLY MAKE YOU FEEL COMFORTABLE BUT LOOK
SO. BUSTER BROWN.

Isn't it a pleasure for you to buy from the store at the top- You can then feel you have done the best. The store at the top has many advantages over the store at the bottom. First, they have the pick of the market. The best makers of garments and materials want their goods in stores of the best sellers of goods. Second price. The store at the top has good "credit" because it can buy for cash. Did you ever know anyone who borrowed money? You know what interest is then. You don't have to pay a higher price - interest - when you deal with us, because we buy for cash, paying no interest but getting large discounts. Again because for cloaks, jackets, furs, suits clothes underwear, hosiery, laces-for everything you wear and need in your home we are at the top. Do your Christmas shopping at this store we can save you money on almost any article.

OLDS NEWS

the 6th.

Mr S J Craig bought the Phayle property on Railroad Avenue last week.

Olds is now in the grip of a very severe spell of winter.

Kenneth, the little son of Mr H
A Samis who has been very low with diphtheria is now recovering and is out of danger. The only other case in town is little Phyllis Shackleton who is also doing nicely.

Olds has shipped 1400 carloads of hay during the last two seasons but this is not all, having shipped 4380 head of cattle and hors s during the last four months; and when all the land in the district is farmed, Olds as a shipping point, will be second to none in Canada.

E Bell with his force of painters are now putting the finishing touches on the Canadian Bank of Commerce building on 4th st.
When finished Manager Duncan will have one of the finest bank buildings on the line. Olds is justly proud of both its banks.

Olds will start the spring of 1911 with a large amount of buildings both business and residential. Olds is building up steadily without any boom and after all this is the growth that counts.

ment this week to the office of previous to the big fire which destroyed the Victoria hotel and did so much damage to the adjoining buildings.
